The Present Bank Crisis and Its remedy.
 MR. EDITOR,—Every person must regard the suspension of the Commercial Bank as a public calamity (I mean every well wisher of our country's financial prosperity.)

has been doing a healthy business for the past eleven years, under the able management of its present manager, Andrew Thompson, Esq. While its discounts have been commensurate with the wants of the business men, its deposits have been increasing, and they amounted to about $300,000, giving the Belleville branch a sufficient capital of its own for all practical purposes. And were it not for the fact that the produce would not have suffered a reduction of five to ten cents per bushel, nor were those who had sold at high prices.

What is our present position and future prospects, and where shall we find a return?

Our present position, in a business point of view, is not very flattering: for we

My opinion is, that remedy is only to be found amongst ourselves and from our own resources. We want a County local bank established on purely commercial principles, and conducted upon sound economic principles, and to do the legitimate business of a bank to extend with the ex-

The shareholders are now more sure in doing business at home, even if small, than in large and speculative business abroad. They have only to instance the miserable case of the Bank of Upper Canada, and the suspension of the Commercial Bank as proof of the truth of my assertions, and will be happy to see those Banks might happen.

LAIRDMAN in introducing the first evening, made some happy allusions to principles upon which Orangemen and the close connection it had with Protestant Religion: he might have said that Religion and Liberty were the basis of all that they were men of Orange. He then gave us the Orange and the Protestant Religion.

LAIRDMAN was drunk with enthusiasm and acknowledged by Rev. J. GRIFFIN, who, in the course of his remarks, said there was no world where there is such loyalty as in Canada, in fact, Canada was more loyal than Englandmen.

No Sovereign ever sat upon the throne of Britain who had received such and loving homage as our beloved and although he was not prepared, to go so far as Oranienstein, it nevertheless occupied by a Roman it was little likely his subjects would nearly to him. When they came back to the period when Guy Fawkes tried to destroy the King, Louis, and sent, and see what England had come they had reason to thank God for that grace. At the time of the Spanish Expedition, you will recollect that as the foremost nation in Europe. A fore that period, England had won

JOSEPH WILD acknowledged the seminar in a very happy manner. Whatever may have been his previous opinions of the "New Course," he now bills it as the "New History," and reads a long list of names of history, and reading organizations in support of that history. He held out no objection that the Institution was not a good one, but here again history counselors acknowledged what it had done to se-cial and religious freedom we enjoy.

the power of the Order, and it should be fact that through its instrumentality they

Death of Bishop Strachan.

Venerable Bishop Strachan died on morning, the 1st November, at the eighty-nine years. The following connected with the Bishop's life was the Tonto Telegraph:

...the venerable Bishop was born in Aberdeen, Scotland, April, 1878, and was educated at the school of that ancient city. In the fall he was matriculated at King's College of Montreal, where, subsequently, took the B. A. degree. He then returned to the United States, and, in 1898, to the University of Chicago, where he commenced to teach in the little St. King's Kittle. It was at this time that he received the offer through the Hon. A. J. A. and Robert Hamilton, to proceed to the United States to take charge of the University which Gov. Simons had founded on establishing at the seat of Government of Upper Canada, in order that the youth of the Province might enjoy the benefits of higher education. This office was that he was studying at St. Andrews, and it recommended Mr. Simcoe, accepted it. His first connection with letters came to August, 1799, when an appointment was made to Mr. Simcoe being appointed to a readership had left the Province, and needed by another, and thus the plan was ground. He afterwards opened a Kingston, remained there three years, and then a vicar of the parish of the redemption of Upper Canada, prepared the Church of England. He was ordained deacon by the Right Rev. founders, first bishop of Quebec, and then to mission to Cornwall. He also assumed the duties of a parish, and his pupils were the late Sir J. B. Sir J. B. In 1891, on the death of St. Andrew's conferred on him the degree of LL.D., and in the same year he was elected to the University of Aberdeen also on him that of D.D. In 1812 Dr. was appointed Rector of York in England, and he remained in that office until 1820 when he was created Bishop of Toronto; in 1840 he resigned his membership of the Legislative Council.

News of his death will occasion sorrow throughout the land for he was a man respected and loved by all and all disinterestedly, for his position, his untiring labors in the cause of Christianity, the deep interest in every thing pertaining to the welfare and progress of the community, and his intimate connection with the affairs of this country for a period of more than thirty years. He was known not only here, but abroad, and we, we believe, the oldest bishop of this country, in his life, and which will be long remembered throughout the land than any similar event has ever caused.
